The UK DIY & Hardware Market is set to exhibit growth in 2011, with market forecasts suggesting above inflation growth should feed through to the market later in the year, despite a lack of growth in UK house prices, high unemployment and the ongoing legacy of the recession dampening consumer confidence in general. This mailing, telemarketing & email list enables UK manufacturers and distributors to specifically target DIY and hardware retailers currently active in the UK market and grow sales quickly and cost effectively.

The UK DIY Market in 2011 and beyond...

Following a slight decline in the UK DIY market in 2010, sales of home improvement products through DIY and hardware retailers are expected to experience more positive performance in 2011, as the UK continues to recover from the recession of 2009.

Led by a return to modest growth in house moving, stimulated by the rising availability of mortgages, the UK home improvement market is set to outperform overall UK economic forecasts in 2011, despite high inflation and continued pressure from lower cost imports and an ongoing demand for value for money from consumers. Key growth sectors which are anticipated to lead growth include the paint and woodcare market, showers, floorcoverings, lighting and garden products market, with above inflation growth likely to become more evident in these sectors in the second half of the year. Sources indicate that larger scale home improvement projects are also increasingly likely in H2, 2011 as consumer confidence slowly returns.

This 2011 database enables DIY and associated building products manufacturers & distributors to actively target this important channel at what is now a key growth stage. All indications are that the DIY market has 'bottomed out', with those suppliers focusing their marketing activity on the mid-higher value sector likely to benefit from the return to growth in the economy and consumer confidence during 2011.
